Biography

Many people have compared Alan Doyle to plenty of independent & signed recording artists over the years but there's really not a reason to do that. After all, Alan has always kept the determination to not only make his music different from the current sound in Hip-Hop/Rap music today but to simply be different. He uses the nickname "The Number 4" because it was his old number when he played Soccer as a teenager. Alan started making music out of boredom in 1999 with Microsoft Windows samples & started recording his vocals in 2002 with a broken headphone. Of course, he has greatly evolved his sound over the years as he kept coming up with more to talk about while the sound of Hip-Hop was changing. Even with personal issues like unemployment & homelessness, Alan never strayed away from music & was able to escape the low times. Since then, he gained local attention when he started to perform live on December 18th, 2010. Alan gained more attention by performing at local festivals & earning local notoriety with an award from the defunct Urban Tulsa Weekly's Absolute Best of Tulsa Awards. Now, Alan is maintaining his place in the Tulsa music scene, while working on advancing into the music world.
